

Role of the Early Years Additional Learning Needs Officer (EYALNLO)

The role of the EYALNLO is to work with parents, early years settings, health professionals and others who may be working with children below compulsory school age, to raise awareness of the additional learning needs (ALN) system and to promote early intervention.

The EYALNLO has responsibility for co-ordinating the local authority's role in relation to children under compulsory school age who are not attending maintained schools.
